15. UNIT TRUST LOAN FINANCING RISK DISCLOSURE STATEMENT Investing in a unit trust fund where borrowed money is more risky than investing with the customer's own savings. 15.2 The customer should assess if loan financing is suitable for the customer in light of the customer's objectives, attitude to risk and financial circumstances. The customer should be aware of the risks, which would include the following: (a) The higher the margin of financing (that is, the amount of money the customer borrows for every ringgit of the customer's own money which the customer puts in as deposit or down payment) the higher the risk on the customer's investment. (b) The customer should assess whether the customer has the ability to service the repayments on the proposed loan. If the customer's loan is a variable rate loan, and if interest rates rise, the customer's repayment amount will be increased. (c) If unit prices fall beyond a certain level, the customer may be asked to provide additional acceptable collateral (where units are used as collateral) or pay additional amounts on top of the customer's normal repayments. (d) The customer should be aware that the customer may be asked to comply within the time prescribed, the customer's units may be sold towards the settlement of the customer's loan. (e) Returns on unit trusts are not guaranteed and may not be earned evenly over time. This means that there may be years where returns are high and other years where losses are experienced. Whether the customer eventually realises a gain or loss may be affected by the timing of the sale of the customer's units. The value of units may fall just when the customer wants the customer's money back even though the investment may have done well in the past. (f) This brief statement cannot disclose all the risks and other aspects of loan financing. The customer should therefore carefully study the terms and conditions before the customer decides to take a loan. If the customer is in doubt about any aspect of this risk disclosure statement or the terms of the loan financing, the customer should consult the institution offering the loan.

In the event a new Tax is introduced and such Tax is required to be charged on the transaction contemplated in these terms and conditions herein, the Customer agrees to provide its fullest cooperation to HLAM in assisting HLAM in complying with its obligations under the relevant laws. 18.8 The Customer shall indemnify HLAM and shall hold HLAM harmless from any liability arising as a result of any breach of obligation on the part of the Customer to pay the Tax as set out herein, together with all loss, costs and expenses resulting from such breach. Nothing in these terms and conditions herein requires HLAM to pay any amount of fine, penalty, interest or other amount for which the Customer is liable for. 18.9 For the avoidance of doubt, the parties agree that any sum payable or amount to be used in the calculation of a sum payable expressed elsewhere in these terms and conditions herein has been determined without regard to and does not include amounts to be added on under this clause on account of Tax.
